

HR's 5 most loved Soldo features

Soldo helps HR teams turn everyday spending into a better employee experience. Employees pay for what they need with clear rules and fair access. You get control, visibility and more time for the work that nurtures people and culture.

Here are the five Soldo features HR teams value most.

1. Instant company cards

Issue physical or virtual cards in minutes, with clear rules built in. New starters and remote teams can pay for what they need right away, without having to dip into their own pocket or wait for reimbursement.

When a payment has been made, receipts are captured in the app at checkout. Soldo automatically matches them to the right transaction, so you don't have to chase and your finance team closes the month happy.

2. Company policy adherence

Apply your policy directly within Soldo and let the system handle the rest. Category limits, merchant controls and simple approvals keep spending on track and real-time alerts pick up anything unusual.

3. Integrations that keep HR in sync

Connect with tools like Workday, BambooHR or Personio. When someone joins, access is automatically granted. When they leave, it switches off. Onboarding feels smooth, and offboarding stays neat and tidy.

4. Company wallets

Create wallets for teams or programmes, such as wellbeing and learning. Link cards to the right pot, use auto top-ups and give managers the visibility they need to make quick, confident decisions.

5. Reporting and analytics

See spending as it happens. View it by person, team or project and share clean reports with finance. One source of truth means fewer back-and-forths and a month-end that moves faster.
